Hawaiian Independence.

EDITOR BULLETIN:
I have carefully read Mr. S. E.
Bishop's letter about "Disloyalty," and leaving aside his direct controversary with Mr. T. H. Davies concerning words and their employment, I beg to offer a few comments on some of the reasons advanced as a plea for annexation. Mr. Bishop seems to think that because we are situated nearer to the United States than to any other power we must therefore necessarily be absorbed by our "portentous neighbor." The presence of "her forces at our capital" in like manner according to Mr. Bishop means ultimate annexation. "This powerful interference in Hawaii," he goes on to say, "is visibly a growing necessity to the United States. We are already practically living under a protectorate." A word on each of these statements. A very limited knowledge of the territorial adjustment of the world will suffice to satisfy us that the overshadowing influence of a portentous neighbor is by no means inconsistent with national independence. Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Greece, Montenegro, Monaco and that little republic in the midst of the Pyrenees with an acreage of a mile or two, but the name of which escapes my memory at this moment, these maintain an absolute independence, although it were an easy matter for their mighty neighbors to divide the spoil.

The expression, "the presence of her forces at our capital," is surely a somewhat exaggerated description of a small cruiser. The same term with greater force might be applied to Yokohama—but nobody supposes that any direct idea of annexation is contemplated. The presence of a man-of-war is very desirable here, and as America has probably the preponderating foreign interest here it is but natural that the work of protecting what is mainly American interest should be committed to her care.

I fail to see how Mr. Bishop can correctly speak of this as "a powerful interference in Hawaii." If the American cruiser were to intimidate the election, or to mark out a policy for the Queen or her legislature, or to hint even at the desires of the Republic she represents, we might speak of "powerful interference." I am not sure that the captain and officers of the Boston would not resent the imputation of "powerful interference."

That interference of any kind in Hawaiian affairs should in any sense be a necessity to the United States I do not for a moment believe. The great Republic would go on unchecked in her career of prosperity if the whole of the Hawaiian Islands were obliterated by a cataclysmic shock similar to that which caused them to appear above the blue Pacific waves.

It does seem strange to me that while Americans are, as a rule, such zealous supporters of Home Rule for Ireland, they should be so contrary minded nearer home.
It is not for me to venture a personal opinion on the commercial prospects of annexation, but as a matter of general principle I strongly hold that nations, like men, command the respect of the world by a jealous regard for those "excellent words," and more excellent things, Autonomy and Independence. We have no dangers from foreign invasion to fear—we are not threatened from without; and even if we live under a protectorate we should hesitate to ignore the pardonable pride of those Hawaiians who love gold not less, but Hawaiian Independence more than some of us who have found a pleasant home among them.
READER.

An Inconsistent Man.

EDITOR BULLETIN:
In your paper of December 3 John Emmeluth says: "Whenever this self-styled American (?) concludes to discuss matters bearing on the future of this country over his own name, I shall endeavor to convince him as to the error of his ways." What's in a name in this controversy?
Nothing. In the first place, to begin with, I will inform Mr. Emmeluth that I am a true-born American and taught, wherever my lot is cast, to respect the flag that I live under.
It is immaterial to me whether Mr.
Emmeluth believes it or not; the world will move all the same, with the flag of Hawaii proudly waving over Pearl harbor. Mr. Emmeluth can convince me of nothing; as I have very little confidence or respect for a mechanic, who will cuddle himself under the wing of a party that fills up the country with Asiatics, to the ruin of all social order, also to his own trade, and that of others. Such tactics seem not honest, but queer to the simple-minded.
AN AMERICAN.

A Picture

is always an acceptable present for Christmas. The Pacific Hardware Company have just opened a line of pictures comprising monochromes, artotypes, photographs, Randall's and Guerin's, photographs, panels, cabinet frames, medallions on glass, pastels, steel engravings, etc. Their lines of Mouldings comprise the latest patterns, and picture framing is made a specialty.
An assortment of Cornice Poles, Brackets and Trimming, always on hand.
A number of pictures were sold the day they were opened, and the continued demand is reducing the assortment.
